Thesis Title	Third World between national unity and democracy
Year	2000
Abstract	National unity and democracy are necessary and legal demands for the third world states , to secure its social and political entities and stability of its political systems . These two demands can handle the problems of which most third world states suffer although it seems that the trend which focuses on national unity dominates the phase after independence on account of the trend focusing on democracy . It can be said that if national unity with problems of the past phase , democracy can deal with problems of the next phase , particularly if national unity could not handle some of these problems .
