Thesis Title	THE IMPACT OF NORTH ATLANTIC TREATY ORGANIZATION IN THE FUTURE OF THE AMERICAN - EUROPEAN RELATIONS
Year	2007
Abstract	The American Continent discover and created of United States of America have related with European Continent. The United States of America have represented the state of immigrants and United Kingdom had special Role in all of that process. So, We can find the good relations between united states and European Countries, but these relations could not prevent competition between them especially in Latin America. So, United States declared the principle of Monroe to limit the European influence in Latin America. But, due the complication of relations between United States and European Countries in all aspects economical, political and Security Fields make United States have related with political changes which has happened in Europe and these actions pushed United States to inter fear in two world wars. When the World War II finished and the victory which achieved to the benefit of United States couple of super power raised in international environment, both of them have huge capabilities but in the same time they have different ideology and these super powers were United States and Soviet Union Therefore the cold war world was created. So, this challenge established for United States the argument to increase it's influence in European Continent according to this war one of

the important results is the security of United States became effected by the nature of dangerous which threat its interests, It is very necessary to prevent the soviet extend via established of (Nato) to promote it's vivacious interest in international environment.

According to that Nato the necessity organization to face the dangerous and potentialities to promote its influence in Europe and Nato have considered strategic reflect to American directions also have represented strategic deepness for national security of United States.

The relations between United States and European Countries didn't remain on one level in cold war so we find four levels for this relation, In the first level European totally depended on United States but in the second hand we found mutual suspects between them, so to pass these suspects there was level. finally in fourth level which concluded the level of stability.

After the Soviet Union Collapse and disappear the communism system, the argument of Nato exist was erasure, however, United States have worked to existence the Nato and employ it to serve United States goals, America have worked to increase the Nato members and extend it's functions, the territory which covered by it, change it's strategic concept and transfer from defense about security of members to the defense about interest of it's members.

In the world after the cold war United States realized that military existence in foreign environment is necessity to deterrence the aggression and face the regional power, So Nato have worked to assure military exist in foreign environment, Matter which makes the European participation more activity with United States and have worked to forbid the separation between European security and American security, The matter which guaranty the leadership role for USA in Europe and create the unit of situation in political and military fields to assurance the USA domination in Europe, Nato have worked to contain potential power in future to limit the independent orientations and increase the European will depend on the Nato as a security umbrella.

The extension of Nato present favour for USA economic progress further then provide the opportunity to exist in east Europe and control on Energy areas.

The existence of Nato is considered one of the important American tools to impose it's ideal in the whole world as (Globalization).

USA have always worked to contain all independent programs in security fields, So the steps of Nato were coming first while other European steps came lately the matter which make Nato active more than other European programs, further more, there are many views probably can present clearly picture about the relations between USA and Europe and these views as follows:

- (1) Continuous domination of USA on the relations between them.
- (2) View of diverting in relations between USA and Europe which conclude the collapse of Nato.
- (3) View of balance of interests between the sides of Atlantic Ocean, Finally we thinks the third view, and it is preponderance to realization of others.
